GERMANS FIGHT DESPERATELY TO KEEP THE BRITISH FROM PENETRATING THE WOTAN LINE

English Smashing Forward After Piercing the Famous Hindenburg Defenses.

ATTACK AHEAD SCHEDULE

British Foreign Minister Here Gets Report That British Attack Is Being Prosecuted With Smaller Losses Than Some Attack A Year Ago.

The British have burst through the Oppy line and are fighting the bloodiest and fiercest battles of the present offensive in a great effort to smash the famous Wotan line before its organization is completed. The Hindenburg line, outflanked and pierced in several places, has fallen to the forward surge of the British and the Wotan positions are the last great barrier barring the road to Douai, Cambrai and Germany's richest prize in France, the great coal and iron field north of Lens.

The Wotan line runs from Drocourt to Queant, a stretch of 15 miles, running north and south about five miles west of Douai and Cambrai. Around Queant, the southern extremity of the line, General Haig has forced a great human nipper and is striving with all the power at his command to close the jaws of these nippers. Realizing the menace of the situation the Germans are fighting with a grim determination which reckons no cost in blood too high if it balks their advancing foe.

The renewed fury into which the great battle of Arras has flamed has diverted attention from the possibly more significant events which are shaping behind the battle front. The German censorship has lifted as far as to allow newspapers and mails from Germany once more to reach the outer world, but there is little information as yet as to what has transpired within the borders of Germany during the last week.

BRITISH FORCES ARE TWO WEEKS AHEAD OF SCHEDULE. WASHINGTON, May 4.—The British forces on the western front are two weeks ahead of their attacking schedule, according to a cablegram received today by Secretary Balfour, from the foreign office. The advance, it said, has been much faster than expected and the losses smaller.

The losses were said to be only one half as large proportionately as those on the Somme offensive last year. This is attributed by members of the cabinet to an unexpectedly better artillery preparation and the fact that the men are not allowed to outrun the guns.

BRITISH MAKE BUT SLIGHT ADVANCE GERMANS SAY. BERLIN, May 4.—British troops yesterday only succeeded in taking Frezenoy and "small portions of our foremost trenches near Caluville," says the official statement issued today by the German army.

The battle against the English, the statement adds, is continuing today. The Germans took more than 1,000 prisoners.

Strong English cavalry forces, the announcement declares, have been assembled southeast of Arras.

10,000 OFFICERS CHOSEN ON MERIT. First Commissioner Men to be Selected After Three Months' Training.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—A full outline of plans for training the first 10,000 officers for the first 600,000 troops raised by selective conscription was made public today by the War Department.

After three months' instruction at the training camps, the 10,000 officers for the 16 infantry and two cavalry divisions will be selected on merit from the total of 40,000, and assigned to regiments which will be called to the colors a month or two later. The 30,000 men who are found qualified will be commissioned in the officers' reserve corps and called out for duty as needed.

Sites for the mobilization camps have not been announced but they will be in each case within the limits of the district prescribed for the officers' training camps. Those designed for coast artillery will go either to Fort Monroe, Va., or Fort Winfield Scott, Cal., for two months of special instruction, while those for signal corps, aviation or other special service will be assigned to special training units.

GERMANY GETTING PRODUCTS OF U. S.

Senator Makes Disclosure While Debating Necessity of Embargo; Censorship Defeated.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The influence of President Wilson's approval of the newspaper censorship section of the espionage bill failed to save it in the House today and it was stricken from the bill by a vote of 220 to 167.

The vote came after administration leaders had fought hard for the section under a hot fire of attack and Chairman Webb of the judiciary committee had told the House he had just heard from President Wilson that the section was necessary to the defense and safety of the country. Postmaster General Burleson, who often visits the Capitol to round up support for administration measures, made a futile attempt to get enough votes for the censorship section.

At the same time, the Senate was debating the bill, and President Wilson's approval of the export embargo section was upheld there.

Senator Overman read a letter from the President dated April 14, endorsing the section. It was read after Senator Reed had challenged a statement by Senator Overman that the President personally endorsed the embargo proposal.

"A few weeks ago," said Senator Overman, after reading the letter, "it became known that this country was sending food, clothing, and many other things to Germany through some of the neutrals, and the President decided to ask legislation to stop it."

Senator Overman said he was at liberty to disclose all of the information in his possession regarding the receipt of American products in Germany.

TO SEND U. S. HASE HOSPITAL TO FRANCE. WASHINGTON, May 4.—Definite plans have been completed for sending United States army base hospitals to the fighting front in France.

The number of units, the time of their departure, the means of their transportation, and the time of their departure, cannot, for obvious reasons be disclosed. This is in accord with the plan to increase hospital facilities behind the front and reduce the numbers of hospital ships which have become special targets for submarines.

Despite protest of the Red Cross, ruthless destruction of ships bearing wounded soldiers, including Germans, continues. As Germany declines to hear the protests of civilization, the only course of the Allies is to reduce the opportunity for violation of humanity's law. Other American hospital units will be sent from time to time.

BRITISH LABOR LEADERS HERE FOR CONFERENCE. NEW YORK, May 4.—British labor leaders appointed by their government as official advisers to American labor in the conduct of the war arrived in the United States today and will go at once to Washington.

The delegation, passengers on a British steamship, are the Right Hon. Charles W. Bowdler and J. H. Thomas, members of the British parliament, and H. W. Garrod, who represents the labor party in the bureau of munitions. They are here at the invitation of the American Federation of Labor.

SNOW FOR TONIGHT. Weather Man Predicts More Winter for Western Pennsylvania.

An unusual prediction for the month of May is today's forecast by the weather man, who fumes the announcement that snow may be expected tonight. The past few days have been very chilly with exceedingly cold nights. Overcasts are plentiful today, it being one of the coldest in the past week.

Just what effect a snow will have on the blooming trees is uncertain. Unless accompanied by a frost, no damage may be done.

SEVEN WANT TO JOIN COMPANY D

Medical Examinations Not Given Last Night Because of Absence of Major McKee.

Owing to the absence of Major R. S. McKee, medical examinations were not conducted last evening at the army. Seven young men applied for admission to Company D, Tenth Pennsylvania Infantry, and all will be accepted if they pass the physical tests.

The seven men who applied were from all sections of the county. Two were from Uniontown, two from Brownsville, two from McClellandtown, and one from Connellsville. They will receive their physical tests Monday night, when recruits will again be accepted by the officers of Company D. If all seven of these men pass, the total of recruits received since Captain R. S. McKee issued his call will be 23. The call at first was for 20 men, but, due to the release of men with dependents and the expectation that some members of the company will be unable to get by the physical examination again, it will be possible to accommodate a number of others who wish to enlist.

VANDERBILT MAN IS FOOD SUPPLY CHAIRMAN. The food supply and civil relief committee of the Fayette county branch of the public safety committee got down to work yesterday afternoon, when a meeting of the body was held in Uniontown.

Following a long discussion of the subject of increasing food production, in which it was brought out that the average man and woman does not appreciate the importance of the project, it was decided to appoint an executive committee of 14 members to confer following the general meeting. The executive committee then decided to hold a joint meeting Saturday with the executive committee of the Fayette county farm bureau to arrange a definite program.

E. E. Arnold of Vanderhill was elected permanent chairman of the food supply committee, and County Farm Agent P. E. Dougherty was chosen secretary.

Three Connellsville people were appointed to the executive committee: Mrs. W. O. Schoonover, Mrs. D. D. Brooks and S. P. Ashe. Mr. Ashe proposed a canvass of farmers of the county to ascertain just which ones needed help. How much help they could use, if they could work more ground than they are working now, if they needed seed potatoes and found it impossible to get them, and similar information. Other members of the committee felt that this would be impossible to do. Mr. Ashe also proposed that when farmers in certain sections needed potatoes for planting, a car be rushed through to them. P. A. Johns was afraid this did not come within the scope of the committee. It will be necessary to do this within two weeks, it is said, or it will be too late.

County Farm Agent Dougherty suggested that calves and sheep should be raised instead of being slaughtered in their first year.

25 NEW MEMBERS. IN THE RIFLE CLUB. Thirty odd members of the Connellsville Rifle Association met in the armory last night, admitted 33 new members which increases the enrollment to 39 and decided to hold weekly meetings for purposes of instruction and drill. The formal application for membership in the state association has been forwarded and is now on its course through the regular channels for final approval by Secretary of War Baker.

At the conclusion of the drill the members were formed into a "ward squad" and given about an hour's instruction and drill by Lieutenant A. J. Buttermore, a Spanish-American war veteran and former member of Company D as a national guard unit. It is possible that at a later meeting the decision will be made to hold drill two nights in the week in order to accommodate those members who cannot be in attendance on Thursday night.

The members admitted last night were as follows: E. Dunn, Cyrus Eichel, A. V. Bishop, John Trider, James C. Long, A. M. Haines, R. R. Roberts, C. F. Parker, J. S. Bryner, J. E. Collins, Dr. E. A. McCombs, Abe Daniels, Harry Restofski, L. V. Wolfe, G. E. Albrecht, A. O. Stone, M. Hurst, F. W. Wright, W. L. Wright, M. E. Frazee, E. R. Koser, O. R. Carpenter, A. A. Clarke, Osborn Younkis, W. S. Schanana, W. A. Bishop, P. C. Rose, I. F. Yanatta, John Davis, J. W. Smith, Robert Grim, J. R. Davidson and Edward J. Enge.

FRENCH MISSION SPECIAL STOPS IN CONNELLVILLE FOUR MINUTES LAST NIGHT

The French war mission special, aboard which Marshal Joffre, M. Viviani and other members of the mission are taking a tour of the middle west, at the invitation of the American government, stopped in Connellsville at the Baltimore & Ohio station for four minutes last evening while the engine took water.

The train went on through to Chicago, the first stop of the party. The trip of the party will last about a week and stops will be made at a dozen cities. At Connellsville the train was boarded by M. J. Hall, general superintendent of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and J. M. Eaton, superintendent of the Connellsville division. Mr. Eaton left the train here when it arrived shortly after 10 o'clock. A. W. Thompson, vice president of the railroad, accompanied the party from Baltimore.

There was no demonstration at the train here, no announcement having been made of the expected arrival of the mission. Only a few persons in the city knew of the special train, and arriving at a time when no other passenger trains are scheduled, the station was deserted. The special was expected to reach Chicago by noon today.

Every precaution to make the trip of the distinguished Frenchmen safe was taken by the railroad officials. No word that the train was running on the Baltimore & Ohio route was given out except to a few men who had the handling of the trains.

At Harper's Ferry a brief stop was made for the party to view the scenery, and at other places the only delays were for changes of engines and water.

At one point Marshal Joffre asked for the mayor of the town and seemed disappointed when he was not present.

VACUUM VICTIM WAS BEST MAN AT A WEDDING HERE. Lieutenant Thomas of Tanker's Gun Crew Offended at Marshall Thomas Nuptials.

The news of his death at sea was conveyed to the Marshall family through the dispatch in The Courier yesterday. At first Lieutenant Thomas was reported missing but when the boat containing the captain of the Vacuum arrived at an English port the story of the ill-fated officer's death and burial at sea was told.

Both Lieutenant Thomas and his cousin are natives of Brownsville, Tennessee.

DISSOLUTION OF FIRM IS SOUGHT

J. L. Schick Charges C. F. Hood With Withdrawing Funds of Hussar Chemical Company.

UNIONTOWN, May 4.—Asking for the dissolution of the Hussar Chemical company of Connellsville and that a receiver be appointed by the court to wind up the concern's business, J. Lawrence Schick, represented by Attorney J. Kirk Renner, filed a bill, in equity in common pleas court late yesterday in which Charles F. Hood of Connellsville, and the Hussar Chemical company are the defendants.

Mr. Schick, who is a partner of Mr. Hood, trading as the Hussar Chemical company, charges that Mr. Hood withdrew from the bank all of the funds of the Hussar Chemical company and deposited them in the name of Highland Electro Chemical Manufacturing company, a concern owned by Maria L. Hood, his wife.

According to the bill filed by Mr. Schick, he and Mr. Hood have been partners for 13 years under the name of the Hussar Chemical company, a selling agency engaged in exploiting and selling products of the Highland Electro Chemical Manufacturing company, a venture owned by Mrs. Hood and of which her husband was the active manager.

During the last few months, Mr. Schick claims, Mr. Hood has demanded that the business of the Hussar Chemical company be turned over to the Highland Electro Chemical Manufacturing company without consideration.

Mr. Schick claims that he refused to do this. He had, he claims, the practice for both partners of the Hussar Chemical company, Mr. Schick alleges, to sign the vouchers for the payment of the partnership funds, and Mr. Schick admits that he signed vouchers in blank at the concern's place of business, knowing that they could not be used without the signature of Mr. Hood.

On last April 4, Mr. Schick alleges, while he was away, Mr. Hood signed a voucher, making himself the payee and withdrew from the bank $1,474.46, all of the partnership funds, and deposited the amount to the credit of the Highland Electro Chemical Manufacturing company.

Mr. Schick asks the court for a decree to dissolve the partnership, to appoint a receiver for the Hussar Chemical company and to further restrain Mr. Hood from further interfering with the assets of the Hussar Chemical company and particularly from using its name for the prosecution of its former business.

ROBBERS GET LITTLE. Reports of Much Money Stolen Prove Unfounded.

Reports received by the police yesterday show that there were two more store robberies on Wednesday night, these being in addition to the four which had been previously reported. The junk shop of Abe Daniels was broken into, and a few pounds stolen. Three negroes were frightened away from the Union Supply Company store at Davidson, while they were attempting to gain entry, John DeTemple, Sr., who saw the intruders at Davidson, says that the burglary was attempted at about 1 o'clock Thursday morning. One of the negroes, he says, wore bright yellow shoes.

The police said this morning that not more than $2 was lost in all six of the nights' raids. A few pennies from each store's cash register and some cigarettes and tobacco were the total spoils.

First stories that Tony Gigliotti had lost $25 and the Assyrian confectioners in the Colonial building $13 proved to be entirely false. J. M. Young, the grocer, is ready to admit that no sugar was stolen from him. It seems that clerks in the store convinced Mr. Young that his first impression that 40 pounds had been taken was wrong. A space which holds 80 pounds was found only half full on Thursday morning, this leading to Mr. Young's belief that much sugar had been lost.

All indications are that the jobs were done by boys, the police say. Finger and foot prints in Gigliotti's were examined and found to be of such small size as to preclude the possibility that men had been the burglars.

No Connell Meeting. South Connellsville council did not meet last night. A quorum could not be obtained.

44 BOY SCOUTS EXTINGUISH BIG FIRE IN WOODS

Youths Render Real Service Extinguishing Blaze Along Boulevard.

Boy Scout troops No. 1 and No. 2 did their first active work last evening when, under the direction of their scoutmasters, A. O. Stone and Clark Witt, a forest fire along the boulevard was extinguished. The scouts were called out at 6:30 and worked until 9 o'clock before the flames were finally conquered.

How the fire started is unknown. Cypresses are reported to have caught on along the edge of the woods on Wednesday night, and a fire left burning by them may have ignited the underbrush. The flames were seen to be gaining headway early last evening and Scoutmasters Stone and Witt sent out a mobilization call. At 6:30, 16 boys were taken to the woods. Other members of the two troops kept arriving until finally there were 44 on the scene.

Brush and clubs were used to beat out the flames. The fire instead of burning in one general direction, seemed to scatter on all sides. Catching the dead underbrush, it ran along the ground and kept all the scouts busy every minute.

When the boys returned home there was still one tree burning but it was too big to be brought down. Scoutmaster Stone watched it until it fell, but no new blaze was started.

This is the second time the scouts have been gotten together quickly on a mobilization call. Once before a trial test was held and it proved very satisfactory. Last evening the message was, "get here as soon as possible." One boy who escaped helping with the supper dishes through the call, went without a cap in his hurry to get away.

NOVEL APPARATUS. First Playground Outfit Includes Variety of Play Machines.

The playground apparatus which was shipped here several days ago, and will be erected shortly in Connellsville's first playground in the Second ward, consists of a variety of material. There is an "Ocean Wave," to begin with, which will be a novelty for the children who go in for organized recreation here. There will be a "giant slide," consisting of eight metal ladders of galvanized pipe. A swing set, a slide, a see-saw outfit, and a horizontal ladder, complete the apparatus.

The entire outfit will cost the playground committee $285.75. It has been stored under the Young bridge for the time being, and will later be removed to the basement of the Second ward school building where it will be kept until all has been made ready for its erection.

MEETS TONIGHT. Local Council of Boy Scouts to Appear at Court of Honor.

The officers of the local council of the Boy Scouts will hold a meeting this evening to appoint a court of honor, to examine scouts for the first class. Scouts have to pass satisfactorily the examination given by the court of honor before they are awarded a first-class badge.

As soon as the court of honor is appointed by the officers an application for a charter will be made. With out a court of honor it is impossible to get a charter.

At present there are about 14 boys in Troop No. 2 who are ready to take the first class scout tests and almost the same number in Troop 1. The combined roll of Boy Scouts in this city shows 112 boys that have been accepted.

AGED MAN HURT. Owensdale Man Thrown Out in a Runaway.

In a runaway which occurred yesterday afternoon at the West Side end of the Young bridge, August Galt of near Owensdale, 53 years old, suffered two fractured ribs, for which he is receiving treatment at the Cottage State hospital.

A shaft of the buggy broke, causing the horse to take fright and run off. The frightened animal collided with a pole, throwing Mr. Galt from the buggy. He was removed to the hospital, where it was discovered that his only injury was two fractured ribs. The horse was caught by another man who was in the buggy with Galt. The vehicle was badly damaged.

CHINN ARRESTED AGAIN. Falls to Get Sidewalk Clear in 21 Hours Allotted Him.

Chinn, after he had paid a $5 fine yesterday in police court, was warned by Mayor R. Martotta to get the obstruction from in front of his North Pittsburg street store, which he is remodeling, within 24 hours.

This morning the mayor and Chief Rottler walked down to Chinn's place and found the pavement still blocked. The man was arrested at once.

These candidates will undergo the oral examination in the Probation school hall here next Thursday. The percentage of candidates who passed the written examination was much higher than in other years. The examining board attributes this to additional studying. Mine Inspector P. J. Walsh said in announcing the results: The papers showed that the descriptive work required of the candidates was particularly good but most of them showed a weakness in mathematics.

Men who pass the examinations with a grade of 80 per cent in the three days' tests are in line for mine foreman's certificates, if they subsequently pass the oral examination. Those whose grade is not less than 70 are in line for assistant mine foreman's papers, while a grade of 65 is required to be eligible for a fire boss' certificate.

Eloren Dunbar Township Boys to Plant Potatoes.

Boy students of the Dunbar township school have decided to work for the $150 prize offered by Clay F. Lynch, general superintendent of the H. C. Frick Coke Company to the boys in the school who excel in potato raising. Eleven boys have formed a club to be known as the Dunbar Township High School Potato Growing Club. The members are William A. Hornell, John Hinson, Jerome Byers, Edgar Cunningham, Bert Mithland, Allen Galtley, Harold Arnold, Elmer Leigley, George Egnot, John Shultz and Harold Shaffer.

This morning Farm Agent P. E. Dougherty of Uniontown gave the boys instructions in preparing the soil for gardening, preparing the potatoes for planting, and care of the plants after they have started to grow. Mr. Dougherty's talk covered the smallest detail in the art of potato growing and the boys paid the strictest of attention to the valuable instructions received.

BURNS FATAL TO LEISENRING BOY

Three Year Old Joe Perens' Clothing Ignites From Hot Ashes.

Burns suffered yesterday afternoon about 1 o'clock when his clothing ignited from hot ashes, resulted in the death of Joe Perens, the three year old son of George and Ellen Perens of near Leisenring No. 2, Dunbar township. A fire was built in the rear of the Perens home on a farm for the purpose of burning rubbish. After the fire had burned out, Mrs. Perens started for the house, the children going with her as far as the porch. When the mother went into the house the children went back to the scene of the fire. Joe ventured too near it and his clothing caught from the hot ashes.

The mother, in making a desperate effort to save her son's life, succeeded in hauling out the fire, but not until the boy's body was covered with burns. She also suffered painful burns of the hands. All the child's clothing was burned from his body, with the exception of his shoes. A physician was summoned and did every thing possible to save the child's life, but death resulted about 6:30 o'clock.

Funeral Director J. E. Simon prepared the body for burial. Funeral from the Greek church at Leisenring tomorrow morning about 9:30 o'clock with interment in the Greek cemetery.

The child's father is a driver in the mines of the H. C. Frick Coke company.

Wilson to Set Date When Drive for Funds Will Be Made.

In a letter sent to all chapters, President Wilson says: "Experience is certainly the most convincing teacher, and we should learn by these European examples how to conduct our own relief work with the most thorough efficiency and system. With its catholicity and its democracy, the Red Cross is broad enough to embrace all efforts for the relief of our soldiers and sailors, the care of their families and for the assistance of any other non-combatants who may require aid."

HOW TO GET STRONG

A Simple Remedy.

Whatever the cause, we want to say to every person who needs strength, you need Vinol as it is the most efficient strength creator we have in our store. Here is proof from Dorchester, Mass.

"I don't know what we would do without Vinol in our family. I was weak, nervous and run-down as the result of an operation, and Vinol restored my strength. Then Grandmother had a nervous breakdown, and Vinol built her up and restored her health and strength after everything else had failed. We have used Vinol for 13 years in our family, and would not be without it in the house."

We believe in Vinol because we know it is a great strength creator, due to the best and cod liver pentones, iron and manganese peptonates and glycerophosphates, all dissolved in a pure medicinal wine, so we always return the purchase money if Vinol fails to benefit those who buy it.

Laughrey Drug Co., Connelville. Vinol is sold in the West Side by Fren H. Harnung. Also at the leading drug stores in all Pennsylvania towns.

Remarkable Values--

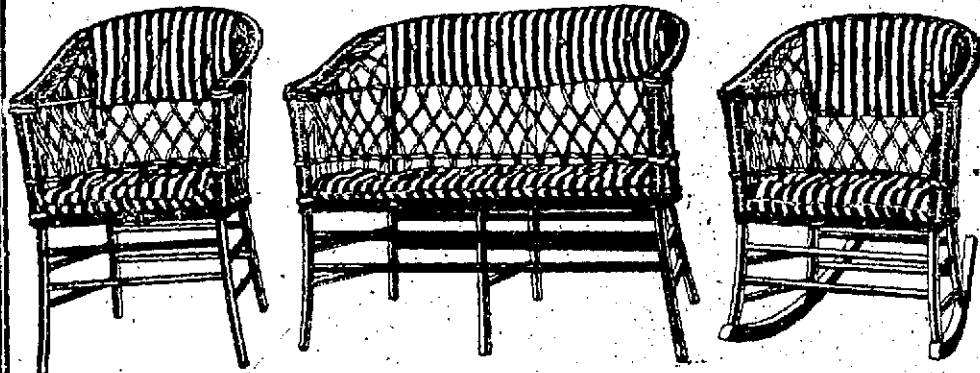

—and the reasons why Aaron's is the one store in Southwestern Pennsylvania that can and does give them to you.

If you had the largest store in this section of the country, if you did a volume of business that was many times greater than that of all the other stores in your line combined, if your financial responsibility and large buying-power could demand from the manufacturers merchandise of the highest quality and workmanship at "rock bottom" prices, if you employed skilled salesmen to give your patrons expert advice and helpful assistance, if you guaranteed every article you sold—it is only natural then that you could sell merchandise for less money and give your customers a far greater degree of satisfaction than anyone else in your community could.

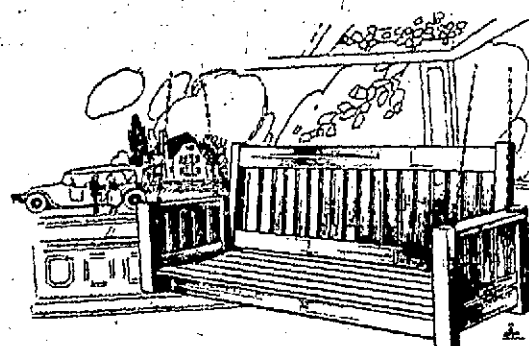

That's just exactly the situation with Aaron's—they enjoy all of the above privileges. And that's why Aaron's should be favored with YOUR patronage.

Stirring Stories of the Sea

The Last Battleship

Remarkable Tale of a Battleship, an Airship and a Submarine

From Success Magazine, New York.

"Loose him!" called the captain unconcernedly. "Give him his way!"

The man stooped and unfastened the cord which held Felton's wrists, then, even as he scrambled to his feet, he released his ankles.

"Now, you dog, take it!" he growled, launching his bat at the man's face. It landed squarely, and the man went down, bleeding. His torso, but instead of reaching for anything, he lay motionless, his head resting on his arm.

Once more Felton went down to rise again and tranquilly face his assailant. Felton hesitated, while his anger cooled a little. This kind of fighting was new to him. But the sick in his head flashed into his mind, and the anger came back. "Right! Right!" he growled and again knocked the fellow down. "Any one else here who wants to kick me?" Felton said.

No one answered. They were all looking down, and even the victim joined in the scrutiny.

"Do you think," asked the captain, raising a troubled face, "that there are any submarine craft around?"

"How do I know?" answered Felton. "I don't feel any at all."

"How the devil," exclaimed Felton, "can a submarine hurt you?"

The captain did not answer.

The airship had descended to less than a hundred yards from the sea and hung poised, not over the floating scrap heap that had once been a battleship, but to starboard. One look was enough for Felton. He saw men writhing among the wreckage, unable to crawl to the rail and end their agony. Smoke was coming from every aperture, and here and there a small turret of smoke shot up and fell back into the smoke. Nauseated with horror, he closed his eyes, changed his position and opened them on the placid sea on the other side, away from the Argyl.

The over a movement on the surface caught his eye. It was a triangular arrangement of signals such as is made by the cutter of a boat moving slowly. The apex of the triangle pointed toward the Argyl, and it was coming toward her. As it drew near, Felton made out the cause, a short length of pole extending about three feet out of water.

"There's a submarine for you, captain," he called grimly. "See the periscope tube?"

"Where?" yelled the captain excitedly. "Where is it?"

"He's coming to his feet."

"Oh, God help us!" cried the captain mournfully as he saw the tube and the shape beneath. "Jump—jump for your lives! Jump, you!"

He pointed at Felton and sprang toward him.

"Why should I jump?" asked Felton wonderingly and prepared for defense. The others came to him, each shouting his loudest: "Jump, jump for your life! Overboard with you! Quick, you fool!"

Then one sprang to the rail, poised a moment and threw himself out into space. Another followed and another.

"Jump, what you?" yelled the captain, exultingly exhorting. "In a command, must be lost to go. Over with you! Over with you all!"

They were crowding to the rail, where one after another the rest of the crew took the leap. With no further thought about the matter, Felton reached the rail and, without looking down, drew a deep breath and leaped, a victim of sudden emotion.

Three hundred feet is a long jump. He turned over twice in the terrible descent, and once, looking upward, he saw the sprawling form of the captain and above it the quivering airship.

With consciousness nearly gone he struck the water feet first and was almost split in two by the impact, but the cold shock brought back his lapping senses, and he found himself feebly swimming in which direction he could not tell, for it was pitch dark.

Suddenly a light appeared. It was not a dim glow like diffused sunlight, but a spark, a point of yellow, that grew larger and became a disk. It was up, pronouncing, and now another appeared beside it, fainter and crescent shaped.

On the other side appeared a third, and dazed with physical agony, that reached from lungs to brain, he recognized the dead lights of a submarine's conning tower. He looked for the hull beneath and saw it, a dark blue that was glowing in blue.

It came swiftly at him, and just as he was reaching out to ward himself from the pointed nose there came a convulsive shudder, and something brushed by him in a blast of bubbles and went on. Then, with many sharp knocks on head, ribs and knuckles, he was sucked with the lurid of water squarely into the open tube that had just discharged its torpedo. He heard a clang behind him, the shutting of the forward tube door, then a whistling sound.

The pressure had nearly burst his ear drums before the tube was emptied of water, and the inner door was opened. With a gasping call for help he crawled and latched along the tube, and men rushed in to him. They pulled him out into the lighted handling room, where, too weak to stand, he fell to the floor, breathing in deep convulsive gasps.

A man brought a bottle, lifted his head and poured a generous portion of some stimulant down his throat. Felton had just strength to swallow, and it warmed and aroused him. He sat up and, being a torpedo expert, had little difficulty in ascertaining his first impression.

"The craft resembled the conventional submarine that he knew. But there was this difference that he noted when able to turn his head: The boat was stiffened with upright stanchions of about the size and length of the stanchions in the airship and placed in about the same position along the sides. Another similarity struck him at his first glance around, and he wondered why he had not remarked it in the airship—the air flasks, trimming tanks and spare torpedoes arranged along the sides, occupied the same relative positions as did the steel cylinders in the other, while the steering gear of both was antiships and the motor power aft.

"What have you caught this time, Billy?" called a voice from the wheel, a strangely familiar voice.

"Dunno," answered the man with the flask. "It's a sheep, I think, or maybe a dog, but it looks something like a horse. Have another drink and tell us what you are."

Felton did not refuse a second drink. It brought him to his feet.

"In a man," he answered, with spirit. "Are you giving me in this emergency? I'm near dead."

"He says he's a man, sir," called the man.

"All right. Send him aft."

Felton was pushed rather than led to the man's quarters.

"Love, or you do," he said kindly. "So you thought you'd visit us. We catch all our fish this way."

"My God, captain," answered Felton, "I'm not visiting! I jumped out of an airship and was sucked into your tube. I'm glad I'm alive."

And then—was the liquor affecting his brain?—the captain's face, blue for the man.

"All right. Send him aft."

Felton was pushed rather than led to the man's quarters.

"My God, captain," answered Felton, "I'm not visiting! I jumped out of an airship and was sucked into your tube. I'm glad I'm alive."

"Exactly. They would have gone off at a tangent if they hadn't. It's better to die on your feet, than to become a comet for all eternity."

"Like the airship, I see. But how did you do it, if I may ask?"

"I reversed his polarity; that's all. See that? Look and listen."

The captain turned a lever, and a dynamo near by began to revolve, while an arc lamp suspended from above glowed, glistened and sparkled, as the current passed through the cut-bow.

Soon it began a curious, musical buzzing, and the captain shut it off.

"Merely an alternating current through an arc," he explained. "But the electric impulses sent out by that singing arc are of a wave length and frequency produced by no other means. They are just right to turn his two magnetic poles into one, and away he goes."

"I don't understand. Yes, I understand that you might reverse his polarity or combine it, as you say, by some wireless method. But which side are you on?"

"The side of the Lord."

"Look here, captain," said Felton angrily, "that is the answer your double question just asked. It means nothing. I am either a pursuer of war or a guest entitled to consideration. Why do you treat me like a fool?"

"Because you are a fool. You believe in the invulnerability of the battleship. Well, there is one of the best. Look at her!"

"I see. Destroyed, but not by you; by an enemy of yours, one who feared you."

"Yes, as mediocrity fears intelligence, as the child fears the dark, the savage the gun of the civilized soldier, humanity as a whole the unseen, the unexpected, the invisible. The airship is potential, but not final; she can be seen."

"And shot," said Felton doggedly. "Did that battleship hit your airship? You know that she could not. The airship's limitations are contained in her visibility. She cannot be hit by shot or shell, but she can be seen and projected into space."

"Granted, but suppose she dropped a bomb on to your back before you saw her?"

"She could not, except in the darkest then she would have to strike a knife edge, and it would be an accident, one chance in millions. We are constructed like a razorback hog to deflect falling bombs."

"But you cannot deflect horizontal torpedoes," said Felton, looking up at the dome of the submarine. It looked curiously like the dome shaped roof of the airship. "I know well," he went on, talking as was his wont among his fellow officers, "that if I could see your periscope tube with a telescope I could hit you with one of my torpedoes."

"Your torpedoes?"

"I am torpedo officer of that battleship. I was on duty that top when you blew it up last night and went up with it. I landed on the airship."

"You are a member of that battleship's crew?"

"I am," Felton dropped his eyes at the meanness in the captain's voice. On the way his glance took in the curving walls of the submarine. They had become so transparent, and even as he looked they vanished, leaving a clear view of the sky and horizon with its swirling of fighting ships, pursued and pursuing. He was again in the airship, and the upright stanchions that he had first observed as anomalies in a submarine now served their legitimate purpose of supports to the roof.

"The drink," he murmured, while his brain swam and his soundings disappeared in a mist. "They've drugged me."

"You belong to that battleship?" roared the captain, but Felton had sunk to the floor, incapable of voluntary action. The captain blew a whistle, and his crew answered.

"Back to the battleship!" thundered the captain. "Load him into the tube. Expel that torpedo and make room!"

Men sprang to the tube and turned levers. The captain sprang to the periscope. "Right," he said. "It'll finish her."

How an airship could send a torpedo beyond Felton's hounded faculties at the time, he was struggling weakly, trying to strike, but unable to, pounded on the face and body by the implacable victim of his fate in the former fight, helplessly borne along toward the tube, now emptied of water.

"Back to the battleship!" they chorused. "In with him!"

Everless to resist, he was jammed head first into the tube. He heard the door break into place behind him; then he felt the impact of cold water. Then, faintly as the voice of a telephone, came the voice of a man:

"The forward door's jammed; it won't open."

"Hammer it," came the captain's voice. "Get a cap maul!"

An age or two went by while Felton lay imprisoned in the tube, holding his breath and immersed in water. Then, faintly as the voice of a telephone, came the voice of a man:

"The forward door's jammed; it won't open."

SARAH BERNHARDT

BERNHARDT YOUNG EVEN IN OLD AGE

Perhaps the Most Universally Loved Actress.

SHE CRITICIZES AMERICANS

Reproaches the Women Because They Do Not Care Enough For Children.
Says War Is Going to Awaken the Religious Spirit of France as Nothing Else Could Do.

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, who arrived in this country last October for her farewell tour of leading American cities and who underwent a serious operation in New York, proved that she is the most universally loved actress the stage has ever produced. In a recent interview, Mme. Bernhardt slipped a glance of milk as she talked.

"I drink only milk now, and I eat only potatoes," she explained smilingly. "That is the way to keep young."

A recent description of her says: Mme. Bernhardt, although seventy-two years old, is most fitted to give the recipe of eternal youth. Her hair is tawny gold. Her eyes, the color of jade, have kept their translucent fire.

The quiet, quicksilver smile that darts up from her face like a rocket, although she is old, she was always and charming and indomitable. But for the first time a certain wisdom shined in her effort to please, and she powdered her face and unceremoniously those smiling lips as she talked.

"Which do you consider the greater weapon—beauty or charm?" I asked Mme. Bernhardt.

"Charm—questionably," she replied. "Charm is gentler, the gentler of plumes. If a woman has it it does not matter whether she is ugly or beautiful, twenty or fifty. But charm, unfortunately, is born in us. It cannot be acquired. A child of three may have charm—so may a woman of eighty. Children, in fact, have charm in its most natural aspect, but not all children."

American Women's Failing. "Do you know," Mme. Bernhardt asked, "there is but one thing which I reproach the American women—It is that you do not care enough for children. You marry for love, and that is splendid, but so many women do not wish for children. What will they have to love when they are fifty? Not a man—surely."

She was a mother at seventeen and a grandmother at forty-two. I pity women who wait till they are twenty-five to become mothers. They deprive themselves of life's greatest joy. They tell old women before their daughters are grown up."

The interviewer asked Mme. Bernhardt about the women who had but one child. She gave the answer to the great question of life—the woman who can still resist neither plan nor purpose and who hesitates to trust her own doubts and vacillations upon the generation ahead.

"I have no patience with such people," Mme. Bernhardt answered. "With a dramatic spirit. They ask why are we here? We are here through love. They say, 'What are we here for?' Why, to love each other. They ask, 'Where are we going?' Why, forward, onward, through our children. You Americans do not love children. I am your mother—always together, your women always by themselves. The most important thing in life is to love and be loved. And to be loved when one is young, gloriously, completely, sheds a splendor over all of life. It is the golden memories which one may count over and over. And it keeps one young."

Religious Spirit Awakened. When asked what she thought would be the effect of the war on life in France, Mme. Bernhardt replied: "The religious spirit of France has been awakened. After peace is declared the Catholic church will come into its former power and greatness. War has proved the futility and limitations of human sympathy in a great crisis that has touched every decade. Religion only can heal the wounds of the spirit and the soul. France will emerge from the war a purified nation with high ideals, and she will become more and more strongly republican."

Goda on Your Frock?

THE LAST WORD.

One of America's best designers puts out this frock of finest quality blue serge cut jumper effect. The front is richly and vividly embroidered with a mass in Chinese pattern, pagodas in fact, and a heavy silk cord girdle accentuates the idea, this also being in oriental colors.

CLIMBED STAIRS ON HER HANDS

Too Ill to Walk Upright. Operation
Advised. Saved by Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

This woman now raises chickens and does manual labor. Read her story:

"For two years I was so sick and weak with troubles from my age that when going up stairs I had to go very slowly with my hands on the steps, then sit down at the top to rest. The doctor said he thought I should have an operation, and my friends thought I would not live to move into our new house. My daughter asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she had taken it with good results. I did so, my weakness disappeared, I gained in strength, moved into our new home, did all kinds of garden work, shoveled dirt, did building and cement work, and raised hundreds of chickens and ducks. I cannot say enough in praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and if these facts are useful you may publish them for the benefit of other women."—Mrs. M. O. JOHNSON, Route D, Box 190, Richmond, Ind.

CHILDREN'S DIET.

How to Give a Youngster the Needed Mineral Salts.

Vegetables and fruit are now considered a necessary part of the diet of the child. The reasons are many, but most of them may be summed up by saying that they furnish material needed to form bone and tissue and to regulate body processes. The mild acids which some of them contain help to prevent constipation; so, too, does the cellulose or fiber, especially when it is raw. Green vegetables are also a valuable means of introducing into the diet mineral matters, particularly iron, in a form in which the body can utilize them. Even at city prices green vegetables have been shown to be an economical source of iron.

Fresh vegetables and fruits must be prepared with care, for there is danger of transmission of disease by means of foods that are served raw. Most people will agree that apples, pears, etc., as picked from the tree in an orchard far enough from the road to escape dust are clean. If they drop to the ground upon clean grass they may still be eaten without much risk, although there would then be more chance for dirt, with its attendant disease-producing bacteria.

All fresh fruits and vegetables which come from the market should be thoroughly washed in several waters. Most fruits may be safely dipped in boiling water, and many can be kept there for several seconds without injuring their flavor. This kills many, if not all, of the bacteria and other organisms that are likely to cling to the fruit. A convenient way to do this is to place the fruit in a wire frying basket. Grapes, apples, pears, peaches and plums are not injured by this treatment, and unripe strawberries are often improved by it. Large fruits, such as bananas, apples, oranges and others with unbroken skins, may be safely washed with soap. Dried fruits should be particularly well washed. If they are then put into a warm oven to dry they are likely to absorb the water which clings to them and thus to be softened and improved in taste.

Cleaning White Shoes.

With the approach of summer seasonable shoes become a matter of much consideration to many persons. If white buckskin shoes are worn it would be well to purchase at any drug store a white magnesia ball, then take a piece of cheesecloth, place the ball inside and rub one way until the shoe is covered with the powder. If possible let them stand overnight; then take a clean, stiff brush and rub lightly over the shoes. This will give a clean and neat appearance and will not make them look streaky or stiffen the shoes. A liquid polish often does. If this is done before the shoes get too dirty and kept up it will enable you to wear your shoes two seasons instead of one.

A New Bag.

A bag to hold scraps of the children's clothes can be quickly made from a yard square of any desired material. Hem each of the four sides and sew a brass ring at each corner. Hang all four rings on a hook, lay the bag out flat, and you will see at once just what you want without any waste of time.

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots.

How to Remove Easily. Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

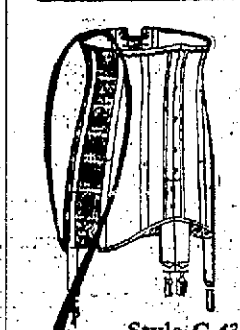

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from any druggist and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine as this is the prescription sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.—Adv.

"I Want to Sleep in Comfort"

SAID a man who came into this store the other day: "I want a bed that won't rattle and that is good looking, or my wife won't have it in the house—a bed that is moderate in price, because I can't afford the expensive kind. What can you show?"

We took him to our display of the new Simmons Steel Beds which have just arrived. We showed him how the foot and head rods are electrically welded—thus doing away with nuts and bolts, which are sure at some time to come loose and rattle.

We explained that these beds are made of tempered steel tubing—so that they are one-third lighter than the old style iron beds. This means unmarred floors and a saving of rugs.

We told him just how the enamel was applied to the steel—four coats, baked separately—so that the bed was good for a lifetime of hard service.

And we explained how his wife might choose any color she liked, or one of the smart-looking wood finishes now in vogue. Also, we mentioned the frictionless casters which insure great ease in moving.

Tonight that man is sleeping in comfort in a Simmons Bed. His wife says it is the best looking bed she has ever had in her home.

That is our idea of service to our patrons. May we not serve you?

MILITARY COMMANDS RESOUND IN LAND AS AMERICA PREPARES FOR FIGHTING

BASEBALL GEMS BY CONNIE MACK

Greatest Machines Were Orioles, Cubs and Athletics.

HOW HE BEAT OUT THE CUBS

When Orioles Swept the Country They Worked the Hit and Run Style—Opposing Pitchers Hurdled Wide When Pittsburgh Tried It Out, and Result Was Laughable.

Connie Mack is winning laurels as an after dinner speaker. Commendations in charge of large banquets, especially those having a theme of sport, are plentiful when they receive an acceptance to their bid from the tall leader.

The baseball engineer's forte is the most one finds in his utterances. In fact, Mack is not for Mr. Mack, but when he talks he says something.

There wasn't a participant at a recent big baseball dinner that didn't rejoice when the toastmaster introduced Mr. Mack as one of the speakers.

The well known says had some praise for Mordecai Brown and Chris Overall that the baseball set should not miss.

"I saw Brown and Overall pitch in the world series of 1909 between the Cubs and Detroit," said Connie, "and I thought then that I never saw such wonderful pitching before. Brown was especially remarkable, and Overall was little behind him."

"I made the mental note then that no club could ever beat them when they were right. Two years later my club had come forward with a rush and won the American league pennant, and we were scheduled to meet the Cubs in the world series.

"Goldimus of advance were written about the great Cub machine and how the Cub base stealers would run wild on our catchers. I never said this to any one before, but it wasn't the Cub machine or its base stealers I feared, it was Brown and Overall."

"All my plans were made to diagnose the pitching of Brown and Overall and try to get under them in some way. In the series it did not take long for me to see that Brown and Overall weren't the pitchers they were two years before. We hit both hard and won the series handily, but I have often thought that had the two Cub pitching stars been right the series would have been one of the hardest fought in history and would have taken seven games to decide."

"I have been in baseball several decades and think that the three greatest machines were the Orioles, Cubs and Athletics."

"I was managing the Pittsburgh team when the Orioles began to sweep the country. They made the race a joke by the facility with which they worked the hit and run. The owners of the Pittsburgh team came to me and wanted to know why I didn't work the hit and run like Hamilton's stars. I replied that I would try it."

"We tried it the next day, with laughable results. I had a team of wooden shoe chaps. Nearly all were as slow as the proverbial snail. Jake Beckley was on first when he tried it the first time. The other fellows saw what we were going to do, pitched wide, and Jake was caught twenty feet from the box."

All over America men are going through the motions indicated in the photographs with the others that go to make up the American manual of arms. Thousands must learn these things in order, military men are agreed, to fit themselves for service in the army. They are a necessary part of military training and discipline.

These regulations are uniform throughout the United States and are used in the training of regular soldiers, national guardsmen, etc. By uniformity possible confusion arising from conflicting regulations is avoided, and men drilled in one part of the country have no difficulty in recognizing and obeying orders when they are transferred to another section.

The manual of arms helps materially in improving the physical condition of the soldiers although the training of the body is not its primary purpose. For that end the experts have devised other exercises which are known as 'setting up drills.'

No 1 in picture represents present arms, 'side view, No 2, rifle salute. No 3, 'present arms' front view. No 4, 'salute,' No 5, 'change bayonet.' No 6, 'right shoulder arms, No 7, 'aim.'

BATTLEFIELD SPORTS.

HORSES IN FIERCE BATTLE TO DEATH

In a battle worthy of a pair of kings of the plains centuries ago, Fred Lance, winner of the 1912 Latonia Derby and other big races, and Ralph one of the choices for the Kentucky Derby in the winter books of 1914, fought at Louisville, Ky., until the former dropped from exhaustion and the younger stallion proceeded to kick him to death.

Home one left, Fred Lance's paddock gate open, and the son of Alvarescot-Merry Heart was dored out. He passed his sire, Alvarescot, without molesting him, but when he broke down the gate into the paddock of Ralph he met his master.

Homer Baker Injured.

Sorrow was expressed when it was announced that Homer Baker, international half mile champion but wrenched his left shoulder and had torn ligaments in his left leg. He fell between a car and the platform in the New York subway. It is doubtful if he ever will do any running again. He injured his left leg in a motorcycle accident two years ago. Baker is now busy recruiting athletes for an auto corps.

Soldiers Relieve War Strain With Football, Boxing and Wrestling.

Even if sports are to be abandoned in the United States they receive as much official encouragement as possible in France behind the trenches. The following letter from one who witnessed a football game behind the lines is testimony to its popularity.

You cannot imagine a more magnificent sight than the vast field presented. There was an immense plain, in the center of which the football field was indicated by a rectangle formed of 7,000 French soldiers. At one end an improvised little stand had been made, composed of fallen trees, all kinds of planks and an odd collection of chairs, all decorated gayly with many flags. The goal posts were regimental flags and the umpire the army chaplain, who had glided up his cassock to his knees and satated thoroughly into the sport. The contest was between the young soldiers of Paris and the old soldiers on the front, or, as we say here, between the bluettes and the 'poules.' The game was arranged by the president of the French Sporting society of Paris. It was a great contest, splendidly played. The young soldiers won. After this there were cross country runs and team throwing exercises. The regiment's records were excellent, some men throwing fifty-six yards, all this mind you while the German cannons were roaring a few miles off."

Up Hill and Down Dale

APPROACH it on a dead run, or start up from a standstill. Up, up you go with the crest in sight and that upward consciousness of abundant power under the hood. For the tank is filled with Atlantic Gasoline—and Atlantic was never known to fall down on its job.

Over the brow and down the other side, dropping into the stride of the burro, if you wish. The motor is purring softly now as you lift your foot slightly from the accelerator.

Another grade. You press down. The soft purr changes to a deep growl and you know you are going to make it on high. For Atlantic Gas is still on the job. Up hill and down dale—all is pleasant going when you feed Atlantic Gasoline.

Put in a shot of Atlantic next time and watch the difference—in both power and purse. Beware of mongrel fuels.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTSDALE, May 1.—The presentation of the art pictures, "The Evolution of a Book," was held in the high school auditorium last evening. C. Valentine Kirby, art director in the public schools of Pittsburgh, made an excellent address on "The Practical Side of Art." Mrs. O. I. Hess, on behalf of the Civic Club, presented the pictures to the school board and Dr. O. I. Hess, received them. Pupils of the art classes of the high school exhibited original posters advocating the "better yard and more garden idea" in Scottdale.
